

RESPONSE 'ability' dwells in our soul

Bengaluru soothes my soul in many ways. Lovely gardens, stately IT parks, placid lakes.... I want my city to accelerate further ahead. This can happen only when our roads are safer, and traffic jams and other blockades are history. However, we can make a difference by pledging to drive safely and using the roads responsibly. Let the ability to do something with responsibility arise from our soul, mind and hearts.

Supported by

MAKE A
FEEL THE DIFFERENCE

